

Not Claims—Facts.

It isn't simply that Calvert Clothes are the best of ready-made—but they are peers of any custom-making.

That's the angle we want you to view them from—the satisfaction we want you to expect of them. They will "make good" in any impartial comparison. You'll notice the patterns are "so-termed" custom patterns; the models have distinctive character—and there's no mistaking the quality of the tailoring.

The price of Calvert Clothes saves you something—but the convenience of immediate service and continued satisfaction are probably of more moment to you busy men.

TY COBB WINS AUTO PRIZE BEATING LARRY BY A POINT

Great Outfielder Informed by Telegram from Detroit
Friend—Other Interesting Gossip of All Stars' Game.

By WILLIAM PEET.

Immediately after the All-Stars-Athletes' game at American League Park yesterday a messenger boy rushed up to Ty Cobb with a telegram, which the great outfielder opened before his team mates and passed around for inspection. The telegram was from a well-known newspaper man in Detroit, and read as follows:

"I have just been informed from Secretary McRoy, of the American League, that the official averages give you the lead over Lajoie by one point."

This means that Ty Cobb wins the automobile prize offered for the leading batter in the big leagues.

Secretary McRoy has entire charge of making out the official American League batting averages, and if Ty Cobb's newspaper friend has the dope from McRoy it looks as if Lajoie has lost out.

Cobb refused to reveal the name of the man who sent the telegram, but stated that he would stake his life that he had been handed the correct dope.

"Doc" White, Billy Sullivan, and Jake Stahl, in talking with the writer about the All Star team, declared that this aggregation could beat the Chicago Cubs in any series, any old time they wanted to play.

Manager Jimmy McAleer, McBride, Walter Johnson, and others immediately chimed in with "You bet we can beat them; and also any ball club doing business to-day."

Before the game started yesterday afternoon, while the Athletics were warming up, they displayed all kinds of pepper and looked like a sure enough championship outfit. Ty Cobb was catching Walter Johnson near the grand stand and the writer asked him what he thought of the All-Star team's chances of winning. Cobb replied with a smile, "You see how good the Athletics look, don't you? Well, when we get out there we will look just about 50 per cent better; they haven't a chance in the world of beating us."

Cobb's words were absolutely true, as the result shows.

"Doc" White had some interesting comment on yesterday's game. He said: "The Athletics showed more ginger and played better ball against us to-day than in any previous battle, and I attribute this to Paddy Livingston, who looks to me like the best backstop on Connie Mack's payroll."

Clyde Milan did not appear to be out of place in left field with such famous players as Speaker and Ty Cobb. If anything he showed up just exactly as well as this precious pair, all of which bears out the many good things the writer has said of him this season, viz., that next to Cobb and Speaker Milan is the best outfielder in the American League.

In chatting with a friend after the game, Manager McAleer vouchsafed the following:

"I would give everything I possess to start the season for Washington with a team as strong as the present combination under my wing, but I suppose it would be just my luck, if such a condition of affairs existed, to drop dead about the Fourth of July and not be able to see my club win the championship."

The attendance at American League Park yesterday was between 7,000 and 8,000 paid admissions, or more people than witnessed all three previous games in the Quaker City. Guess the Capital is a poor baseball town!

The following dispatch was received from Chicago last night:

"The Cubs will go forth to war at 7:30 to-morrow night. Their train will be a special, and will leave the union station as the second section of the Pennsylvania limited. On this special will be the members of the Chicago team, all of them, the wives of most of them who have wives, and the scribes who are lucky or unlucky enough to land the assignment.

"Gossip to the contrary notwithstanding, Overall is the boy now depended on to start the game on Monday at Philadelphia. Furthermore, he is depended on to finish. However he may have looked to the bugs in his workout against St. Louis, he looked good to Manager Chance, the other Cubs, and himself. He was sent in to find out how his arm felt. It felt good. That's all he wanted to know. He didn't put on the ball all the stuff he could have. He didn't try to. He wanted to see if his arm would stand the strain of pitching. His trial convinced him that it would, and left him with a feeling of confidence. The P. L. was satisfied with what he did. Therefore it is almost a cinch bet that he will be the first Cub pitcher to face the Philadelphiaans.

"Manager Chance intends to hold back his ace of trumps, Mordca Brown, until it is time to play on the second lead. If Overall goes through the first game and wins it easily or loses it by a narrow margin, Brown will start the second battle. If Orle doesn't last in the first and there is a chance to win it after he goes out, Brown will finish that one, and then the programme will have to be changed."

TWO AUTOS OR NONE.

Ban Johnson Talks of Recent Batting Scandal.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Two automobiles or none represent the two horns of the dilemma in which President Johnson of the American League has been placed by the champion batsman scandal. That was the idea behind the few opinions he was willing to express in advance of making up his mind what action he would recommend to the National Commission.

What that recommendation will be he expects to decide to-morrow after a conference with Manager O'Connor of the Browns, who left St. Louis to-night to bring his report to headquarters in person. Third baseman Corriden came to Chicago to-day, thereby occupying suspension, and went over all the details of the Sunday double-header which caused the talk. At the conclusion of the player's cross-examination President Johnson said he was convinced the young man's hands were clean in the matter. There is still a chance that he may discover evidence of collusion in to-morrow's talk with O'Connor.

STEWART OUTPOINTS BURNS.

Californian Puts Up Good Fight in First Eight Rounds.

New York, Oct. 14.—Jim Stewart, the local heavyweight, outpointed Jack Burns, the Californian heavyweight, in a ten-round bout at the National Sporting Club to-night. Burns put up a remarkably good fight for the first eight rounds, but in the ninth round the local man went at his opponent and nearly had him out at the end of the round. He put Burns down, and the bell saved him from a knockout from a straight right to the jaw. In the second round Burns mixed it up fiercely and Stewart's left eye opened, which made the elated flow freely.
